Get into the Zone...

Greetings Fellow Kin,

We have had a very interesting month. The best news is the expansion from all 3 Kinette Clubs, with the Fort Erie Kinettes recently welcoming 4 new members to the club. Congratulations!

Founders Night is less than a week away, and The Kin Club of the Garden City is stepping up to the plate to host the event. They promise a fun night of fellowship next Wednesday, February 20th, at the London Arms / Kahunaville inside the Pen Centre in St Catharines. The cost to attend the celebration is $20 per person.

The deadline for the Kinsmen Zone Conference Award submissions is today, and listed below are the nominees. Members wishing to participate for the Joke Off or Gord Harbison Public Speaking Award are allowed to come off the floor.

After countless revisions, Zone D will be presenting 2 resolutions for Zone Conference. The 1st resolution is to amalgamate under a single leadership for the role of Deputy Governor, and the 2nd resolution is to amalgamate the Kinsmen & Kinette Zone Conferences.

There have been some questions regarding what will happen to Zone Dues under the umbrella of single leadership. We want to ensure all members that there will not be any fundamental changes to the Zone Dues as we are not proposing to amalgamate the Kinsmen and Kinette Zone House Rules. As long as the House Rules remain separate, the Dues and Zone Awards will remain the same.

We are really looking forward to the hearing this years group of speakers for the Kinsmen & Kinette speak off competitions. Enclosed with this newsletter is some information for the participants to review for both District and National judging purposes. If anyone has any questions, please don't hesitate to contact myself or DG Kathy.

We have also attached some information from Cystic Fibrosis Canada regarding "infection control." A must read for any clubs that host events. Also, relating to Cystic Fibrosis events, a reminder to everyone that The Great Strides Walk is May 26th. There is a Walk happening in the Niagara Region at Safari Niagara, 2821 Stevensville Rd. in Stevensville. There is also a Walk happening at Bayfront Park in Hamilton if that location is more preferential.

National day of KINDness is next Saturday, February 23rd. Cristen Quigley from National who has spearheaded this project requests that clubs do their best to document the event and to send your stories and photos for the next issue of Kin Magazine. You can email Cristen directly at cquigley@kincanada.ca.

Lastly for Zone Conferences, Presidents if you wish to make a club report submission for the Conference brochure please do so by February 25th. Otherwise we will be happy to print the club report previously submitted to for the Zone Midterm Meeting.

Happy Founders Day to all on February 20th!

Fonthill & District Kinsmen name Fred Disher, Pelham Citizen of the Year

Fred Disher has a big family to call to announce some recent recognition.

The 71-year-old retired Fonthill educator and insurance broker has been a dedicated volunteer and foster parent for years, an effort for which the Fonthill and District Kinsmen will recognize him as the Pelham Citizen of the Year on the evening of Feb. 26 at Old Pelham Town Hall.

"Fred volunteers with a passion for kindness and generosity that truly exemplifies the intent of this award," said Kinsmen representative Kevin Twomey, who noted Disher has volunteered with Pelham Cares, the Pelham Community Policing Committee, the Fenwick Lions and through the town's Canada Day and Santa Claus Parade Committees. Perhaps most notable however is Disher and his wife Bernice's long experience as foster parents.

The Dishers have two children born to them, and seven they have adopted. On top of that the couple has welcomed a host of foster children into their home over the years.

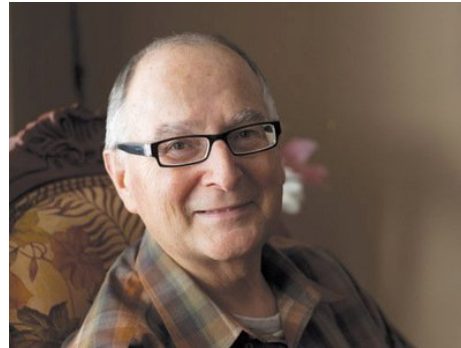

"We've had over 30, probably 35 foster kids," said Disher, who moved to Fonthill from Dunnville 20 years ago. With so many adopted children Disher notes he has upwards of 18 grand kids.

When Disher retired from his second career in finance 8 years ago he joined Pelham Cares as treasurer and has sat on the board ever since. He has also been an official member of the Fenwick Lions for five years, having worked with them several years prior while he worked with the Santa Claus Parade and Canada Day Committees.

Twomey explained Disher was a stand-out nominee for this year's awards, noting he exemplifies just what the awards are meant to encourage, outstanding community involvement and volunteerism.

"Just imagine ... if everyone took the attitude Fred Disher takes," said Twomey, explaining all too often individuals get bogged down with negativity. He added people like Disher help encourage others to not be "stuck in the mud," and that's what the awards are all about.

Infection Control and Cystic Fibrosis

Cystic Fibrosis
Canada

Breathing life into the future®

Introduction

People with cystic fibrosis (CF) are vulnerable to germs that usually have no ill effect on healthy people. Some of these “bugs” can cause serious infections for people with CF and are difficult to treat with antibiotics, so it is very important to try to keep them from spreading.

A few types of bacteria are particularly serious for the CF community:

Pseudomonas aeruginosa

There are thousands of different strains of P. aeruginosa. It is commonly found in soil, water, vegetation, on our skin, and in most man-made environments. P. aeruginosa can often be eliminated or kept at bay with early antibiotic treatment, however, there is some concern that people with CF may pick up strains of P. aeruginosa from each other that are harder to treat than strains found in the environment.

Burkholderia cepacia complex

This family of germs lives in damp or wet places and causes rot in plants such as onions. Some strains of B. cepacia complex can be more damaging to the health of persons with CF and may lead to “cepacia syndrome”, resulting in severe chest problems, fever, and a rapid decline in health.

Methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA)

Methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) are strains of S. aureus that are resistant to commonly used antibiotics. MRSA is dangerous if it spreads to individuals who are very ill with weakened immune systems that cannot fight off the infection. Infection with MRSA in persons with CF may result in impaired growth, as well as a decline in lung function.

How are germs spread?

Activities involving prolonged or close contact between people with CF or with infected materials increase your risk of cross-infection, including:

Kissing or other sexual contact

Sharing medical equipment or exercise facilities

Sharing living space

Riding in a car

Indoor meetings where the majority of participants are individuals with cystic fibrosis

Riding in an elevator

Clinic waiting rooms

Using public washrooms

Eating from a buffet

The most prudent approach to protecting yourself is to follow proper hygienic practices and avoid close and prolonged contact with other individuals with cystic fibrosis. In an open air environment, there is less concern for person-to-person transmission of pathogens, but travelling with other people with CF in a car, or meeting them socially increases the level of risk.

How to prevent germs from spreading?

There is nothing you can do to make the risk zero. However, the best measures for preventing the spread of these bacteria are to practice good personal hygiene and follow the infection control measures listed below:

- Wash your hands frequently, particularly after touching infected materials, such as sputum or saliva and before eating. In the absence of hand-washing facilities, use hand sanitizers.
- Avoid close and prolonged contact with other individuals with CF.
- Maintain a minimum distance of three feet from other people with CF.
- Cover your mouth when you cough. Use a tissue or cough into your upper arm, not your hands.

- Throw away tissues immediately after use and wash hands.
 - Do not share physiotherapy or respiratory equipment, such as nebulizers, aerochambers, PEP masks, etc.
 - Follow the appropriate cleaning instructions for aerosol equipment, nebulizers and PEP masks to minimize contamination.
 - Do not share toothbrushes, eating utensils, cans, cups or bottles.
 - Cover skin scrapes or cuts with a clean, dry bandage until healed.
 - Maintain your general overall health, and follow your prescribed therapy, physiotherapy and nutrition regimens.

What is Cystic Fibrosis Canada's role?

Research and clinical care funded by Cystic Fibrosis Canada continue to be among the best in the world. Canadian CF researchers are studying novel ways to prevent and treat lung infections, including alternatives to antibiotics.

Cystic Fibrosis Canada is pursuing ways that people with cystic fibrosis can participate, interact, and exercise leadership in its activities. To learn more, visit the "Get Involved" section of our Web site or join us on Facebook at <http://www.facebook.com/CysticFibrosisCanada>.

Infection Control Policy

It is the policy of Cystic Fibrosis Canada that persons with CF who have tested positive in the last 12 months for B. cepacia complex and/or Methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) should not attend, in person, any Cystic Fibrosis Canada-sponsored meeting and event where persons with CF may be in attendance. Individuals without CF, who are colonized with MRSA in the nasal cavity or on the skin, but who are not actively sick may attend.

Furthermore, persons with CF should not attend Cystic Fibrosis Canada-sponsored meetings and events held indoors since the risk of close or prolonged contact between persons with CF is increased. Participation is encouraged through alternative methods, such as teleconferencing, web conferencing, or other remote applications.

For the complete Infection Control Policy, Guidelines, and Frequently Asked Questions, visit www.cysticfibrosis.ca, or speak with your CF clinic health care team for more information.

What is Cystic Fibrosis Canada?

Cystic Fibrosis Canada is a national health charity established in 1960, with volunteers in more than 50 chapters across Canada.

Cystic Fibrosis Canada's mission is to help people with cystic fibrosis by: funding research towards the goal of a cure or effective control for cystic fibrosis; supporting high quality CF care; promoting public awareness of cystic fibrosis; and raising and allocating funds for these purposes.
